Part III DETAILED ACTION

Notice to Applicant(s)

1. This action is responsive to the following communications: amendment filed on February 17, 2006.
2. This application has been examined. Claims 1-33 are pending.

Specification

3. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 5, 16, 22, 27, 33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kato et al. (US No. 6,070,205) in view of Sun et al. (US Pub No. 2004/0059852).

In regard to claims 5, 16, 27, Kato et al. disclose the plurality of slave devices (see figure 4, col. 5, line 66 through col. 6, line 14); a plurality of control devices that are capable of being master devices (see figure 4, col. 6, lines 3-7); a plurality of serial buses to which the control devices and slave devices are coupled (see figure 4, col. 5, line 66 through col. 6, line 3); wherein the plurality of control devices arbitrate to determine which of the plurality of control devices shall be the master device for controlling the plurality of serial buses (see col. 14, lines 26-40). But Kato et al. do not specifically disclose wherein the master device periodically switches between the plurality of serial buses to communicate with the slave devices. However Sun et al. disclose the bus arbiter system 170 and method for managing communication buses comprising the plurality of serial buses wherein the master device periodically switches between the plurality of serial buses to communicate with the slave devices (see figure 2, para 28-32). Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of an ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have combined the teachings of Sun et al. within the system of Kato et al. because it would allow the application cards to dynamically select or arbitrate between different communication buses.

In regard to claims 22, 33, Sun et al. disclose monitoring the activity of the master on the plurality of serial bus and wherein each master is associated with a different timeout parameter (see para 31-34); detecting activity on the plurality of serial bus (see para 34-35); if no activity is detected on the plurality of serial buses, the control station waits for a time period associated with the timeout parameter and if upon expiry of the time period, there is still no activity detected on the plurality of serial buses, the control station becomes the master station (see para 33-36). Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of an ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have combined the teachings of Sun et al. within the system of Kato et al. because it would allow the application cards to dynamically select or arbitrate between different communication buses.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 1-4, 12-15, 23-26 are allowed over the prior of record.
7. The following is an Examiner's statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Claims 1, 12, 23 are allowable over the prior art of record because the prior arts, cited in its entirety, do not show the master device for polling a plurality of slave devices and maintaining a fast polling and a slow polling list, the master device polling only one slave device at a time from either list and wherein the slave device is associated with the fast polling list if the slave device respond to a poll from the master device within a time period, and wherein the slave device is associated with the slow polling list if the slave device does not respond to a poll from the master device within a time period.

8. Claims 6-11, 17-21, 28-32 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

9. The reason of allowance for claims 6-10, 17-21, 28-32 can be found in previous Office Action.

Response to Amendment

10. Applicant's amendment and arguments, see pages 1-14, filed February 17, 2006, with respect to the rejection of claims 5, 16, 27 under 35USC103(a) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Sun et al.

Conclusion

11. Claims 5, 16, 22, 27, 33 are rejected. Claims 1-4, 12-15, 23-26 are allowed. Claims 6-11, 16-21, 28-32 are objected.

12. The prior arts made of record and not relied upon are considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Fitzsimmons et al. (US No. 6,954,821) disclose a crossbar switch that supports a multi-port slave device and method of operation.
